Reflection From the Rector's Desk

By The Rev. Dr. Richard C. Bauer

“More than ever before in my life, I believe that I’m a part of a church that can make a difference in the lives of its members,

As we embark on another liturgical year, beginning again our three-year lectionary cycle as a church, I’m profoundly humbled in the recognition that we’re creating something quite wonderful together here at St. Edward’s. Every time I enter our sanctuary, I can feel the presence of our living Lord in the reverent beauty of our sacred space. And as our relationships evolve and deepen through the mutual trust we earn with time, consistency, and other-oriented concern, my spirit rejoices in the privilege of being here...now...as pastor, priest, and administrator. Through disruptive hardship and unprecedented challenge, in times of socio-political turmoil and global pandemic, we’ve managed to persist and to grow in number through our shared commitments to our spiritual home in our first three years together. This is well worth naming, and well worth celebrating.

Here in Advent of 2022, it feels right to reflect upon what we’ve built, and what we’re building, as individual disciples and as a faith community. From the dignity of our memorial garden to the majesty of our stained glass, and from the spiritual formation that we engage in groups to our congruent messaging rooted in the teachings of Jesus, I see our church standing with skill and poise in a social landscape largely overwhelmed by distrust and pervading cynicism. I see us standing in defiance of a dominant cultural narrative that would have us place the individual over the collective and the will to power over the way of love. And through the life-giving empowerment of our mutual ministries and shared leadership, we’re exercising initiative to feed the hungry, to welcome the stranger, to advocate for non-violence, and to question the underlying attitudes that separate us from one another. We have a story, and together we’re helping one another to trust the future, to place imperishable stock in the blessed assurance that all shall be well if we lean into the fundamental principles of our discipleship. In words spoken through prophets, we’re recalling together that: “He has told you, O mortal, what is good...to do justice, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with your God.” (Micah 6:8) And

“sharing Christ’s light and love with those around us....”

“And it’s my heartfelt hope that we’ll all embrace, with renewed passion, our shared commitment to this spiritual home. “

Reflection

we're honoring the call of our Lord as we strive to love God with all that we are, and to love one another as Christ has loved us. (Matthew 22:37-39)

In light of the work we've engaged together thus far, I've found myself invited to revisit some of the conceptual frameworks that I studied during my doctoral work down at Duke in Christian Leadership. Because it occurs to me that I've been watching my academic study come to life as our senses of shared purpose evolve at St. Edward's, that we've been working skillfully together in the realm of (what scholars call) "traditioned innovation." This is a place from which people commit to learning and a growth mindset, to shifting "we can't because" to "we can if". It's a place from which people commit to living in tensions that integrate the counterpoint of stability and change, where folks curate together a sense of culture with a communication style, a message of substance, and a "vibe" that can be experienced and felt. As I ponder the stuff of "traditioned innovation", I think that we're asking ourselves how our church can make a difference in our wider community, and that we're cultivating a public witness that communicates the values of Jesus as a teacher beyond the confines of our worship space. I think that we're headed somewhere good with God's help.

At the heart of this evolving sense of shared identity and purpose, I'm drawn to the essence of Jesus' message as articulated through the Ubuntu adage: that a person is a person through other persons: that "I am...because we are." And as we embark on a new liturgical year, a new lectionary cycle, and the planning of a new budget, I'm starkly reminded that our path as a parish is forged through our collective efforts and our shared commitments to the mission and the ministry that we engage as a body. Together, we keep our local food pantry stocked, provide a place for those in recovery from addiction, hold safe space for our neighborhood children to gather and be kids, and we provide for, and visit with, those in prison. We support and encourage artistic expression, provide skilled counseling services, offer up a breadth and depth of spiritual formation programs, and we commit ourselves to cultivating authentic relationships in community, where we're each known by name. More than ever before in my life, I believe that I'm a part of a church that can make a difference in the lives of its members, sharing Christ's light and love with those around us. I love our church! And it's my heartfelt hope (and my spirit's prayer) that we'll all embrace, with renewed passion, our shared commitment to this spiritual home that shelters, affirms, and instructs us along our journeys as disciples in the Jesus Movement. As we lift up the importance of stewardship this month, articulating the financial resource needs required to maintain our current levels of ministry, it will be up to each of us to freely choose whether we'll play a role in the present and future mission of St. Edward's through the practice of pledging. Under the guidance of a talented and fiscally conservative Finance Committee, we carefully craft our annual budget based on the pledge commitments of our parish community. And through the sharing of our collective resources, prayerfully discerned, we do our very best to balance our income and our expenses. As a non-profit organization without a sizable endowment to draw upon, caring for our physical plant, paying our employees, and funding our ministry efforts is entirely up to us. And with the rising cost of doing business, particularly sharpened in a time of high inflation, we need the help of every member of our parish family to meet our financial obligations as a church.

Please pray friends. Please thoughtfully and heartfully contemplate stewardship this month and ponder what the life of our parish means to you. If you currently pledge financial support to St. Edward's, we thank you, and we ask that you please wonder about the feasibility of a 10% increase in your annual giving. If you're new to our parish family, please consider helping us to persist through supporting our mission and ministry in the form of a financial pledge. We have it in us to balance our budget. And I trust that our shared life matters deeply to each of us, that our collective awareness and generosity will raise our senses of necessity, enabling us to close the gap between our income and our expense. I trust that we're invested in our relationships, in our discipleship, and in the flourishing of our spiritual home. And so, may the Lord bless our efforts and continue to enliven our hearts through the abundance of our shared lives in Christ.

With love and appreciation,
Rick+

By Beth Lynch

I have a story to share. It is 61 years old and continuing. It is about a woman who has found family in many different places.

I was raised in an Irish Catholic family with nine siblings and a multitude of cousins. It was a loving family. We never were in need of food, shelter, or clothing. We played outside all day until dinner when we would gather for dinner at one table. We each had our own assigned seats and said grace at each meal. Like most children you follow the religious beliefs of the faith of your parents. I was in my early thirties when I realized Catholicism was not agreeing with my social beliefs.

I left the church and worked on being the best person I could be and sharing my gifts with those in need. I felt I did not need a physical building or a certain doctrine to espouse my faith in Jesus. Then the last day of the year in 2002 a new life was handed to me as Bruce and I welcomed our son James. It felt like something was missing in my life. I met James' best friend's mom – Mother Jamie aazL'Enfant. As the two of us grew closer we would have theological discussions and thought-provoking conversations. Mother Jamie told me she had grown up Catholic as well but converted to the Episcopalian faith when she realized that she could keep her social justice views and the religious rituals and sacraments she greatly missed. This hit a cord with me. That is exactly what I was feeling. I was invited to attend her church in Greensboro, St. Francis. I immediately knew I belonged. I had found a place where my sister and her partner would be welcome, my divorced sibling could receive communion, and the color of your skin was not an issue. I found an accepting place to worship. I even got the privilege of listening to several of Bishop Michael Curry's rousing sermons.

We moved from Greensboro to Mount Joy at the very end of 2013. We visited several churches closer to us before attending St. Edward's in the spring of 2015. I had a friend who once told me the secret of locating a house to buy when searching for a new home – "You will know it is the right one when you walk in the front door." This truism has served me well in not just buying a house but also in finding new spiritual homes. I found St. Edward's to be welcoming and had a bright atmosphere. When Father Casey announced that a confirmation/receiving class was forming, I signed up. The power of the spirit flowed though me when Bishop Scanlon received me into the Episcopal Church. A justice of the peace married Bruce and I, soon after being received I wanted our marriage blessed by the church. We met with Fr. Casey who agreed to perform the ceremony. As we got up to leave the rector's office an English accented voice spoke behind us and said, "Now you can do something for me." That is how we became involved with the Faith In Action ministry.

It was in a time of great grief that St. Edward's held me in its arms. In 2016 a great friend of mine lost her only child. Karson was a young boy of fourteen. He was someone I had taken care of for years and loved dearly. How could this happen! Fr. Casey sat with me in the sanctuary for close to an hour delaying a family outing comforting and praying with me. Then in 2018, my mother passed away on May 21 and exactly one week later my father also died. The grief was heavy, and Fr. Casey reached out over the internet from his yearly retreat to comfort me and envelope me in St. Edward's arms and tightening my connection to this community.

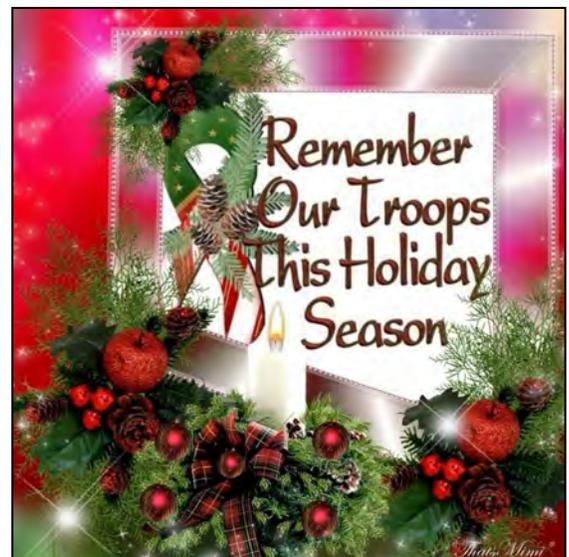

Since then, I have volunteered at many events that would reach into people's lives to show the majestic, loving, faithful, welcoming home I belong too. I have taken part on two discernment committees, I was on the search committee, I chair the FIA ministry, I give of my time to offer crafts at events, and I play Pokémon with the children every Wednesday night. I look forward to this continuing story that I have with St. Edward's. During this time of Stewardship, I hope that everyone that reads this article can reflect on the profound and loving story that St. Edward's has been to you and that you prayerfully discern your 2023 stewardship pledge.

Stephen Ministry

Why I Became A Stephen Minister by Ethel Lawrence

Ethel Lawrence

“I was drawn to this ministry because I love meeting people and hearing their stories. My prayer is to help people who need a caring ear to listen and be there for them at a time when they need to process what they are going through or what they have just gone through. I look forward to giving back in a small way to our church family to love and nurture those suffering heartache, loneliness and fear. I always very much appreciate it when someone spends their time with me to help me process things from time to time. I would love to meet you and ask “What’s happening”.

Do you need someone to listen to your story? We are not counselors but a trained Stephen Minister can listen with empathy and understanding, offering an attentive ear, unconditional positive regard, no judgment. A space where everything is held in the strictest confidence and you are free to be you.

New Wednesday Evening Bible Study Series “The Parables”

A new Bible Study series will begin January 4th

Our St Edward's Wednesday night Bible study offers an in depth look, in this case at Jesus' parables. Our approach to Bible study has been to use the 'Conversations with Scripture' series as a guide through the topic. We travel at our own pace with the intention to delve into the scripture, recognizing its social-historical meaning for its initial hearers, as well as its modern-day readers. Please join us on our spiritual journey. Bob Mosebach

William “Bill” Brosend

Conversations with Scripture: The Parables by William Brosend

Overview from Barnes & Noble: From the very beginning, human beings have loved to listen to stories. And Jesus loved to tell them. The parables are vivid, rich, arresting stories that make us think and teach us lessons about our relationship with God and others. From talents to mustard seeds, from shepherds to Samaritans, Jesus used common reference points to teach important truths.

But the parables are filled with ambiguity and room for interpretation. With histori- cal and cultural background, and careful scholarly detail, this book helps readers explore their beauty, richness, and joy.

The author is uniquely qualified to have written this book. As he says in the introduction:

The parables of Jesus are important to me for many reasons, most of which will be obvious by the time you finish this book, so only a few need be noted here. First, the parables were Jesus' favorite way to preach and teach, and as someone who preaches and teaches about Jesus I believe content and form are both important. Better understanding how Jesus taught will help us better understand what he taught. Second, I have found that the Gospel of Mark is correct in saying that parables are the way the people of God best hear the Word of God (4:33–34). In a variety of settings, from seminary to Sunday school, classes on the parables of Jesus are consistently appealing. Finally, as I explain in the last chapter, I also believe that learning how to interpret the parables helps us in our interpretation of the whole of Scripture. So the work we do together on the parables may help you be a better student of the Bible in unexpected ways. I have been preparing most of my life to write this little volume on the parables, and I have to admit that I had a marvelous time doing so. I pray that you will be informed and formed by it, and hope that you will enjoy it a bit in the process. Blessings!

“How silently, how silently the wondrous gift is given! So God imparts to human hearts the blessings of his heaven.”

Slow Down,

Be Quiet,

It's Advent

Why Advent?

Waiting can be hard, and not just for children. But I do love Advent: this four-week time when the Christian church prepares for Christmas.

Maybe I like Advent so much because it involves active waiting, not thumb-twiddling. It is a gift the church offers the world, to be active (which isn't the same as busy) in ways that open our hearts — and the hearts we touch — to the true meaning of Christmas.

Mother Teresa said, “At this Christmas when Christ comes, will he find a warm heart? Mark the season of Advent by loving and serving others with God’s own love and concern.”

When I take time during Advent to remember in prayer and with gifts of money and time those who have less food than I do, those who are lonely, those without a home; when I pause to share love with a child or an elder, or gratitude for a healthcare worker, pastor or teacher; when I wait for justice to replace oppression but, while I wait, find ways to work for that result ... the Spirit’s warmth fills my waiting heart. I am ready to welcome Jesus.

The Advent Wreath

Patrick Ishler offers the reading for the first week of Advent Nov. 27th.

The Advent candle tradition, involves four candles around the wreath. A new candle is lit on each of the four Sundays before Christmas. Each candle represents something different, although traditions vary, at St. Edward's, the first, second, and fourth candles are blue the third candle is rose-colored.

Sarum Blue Alter Hangings

Christmas Flowers

A clipboard sign up sheet will be available in the Parish Hall during coffee hour, and in the Narthex for services.

Each order is $25.00

The first candle symbolizes hope and is called the "Prophet's Candle." The prophets of the Old Testament, especially Isaiah, waited in hope for the Messiah's arrival. The Sarum Rite was the original basis for the liturgy of the Anglican Book of Common Prayer and blue was used for the color of Advent. It was to represent the darkness before the birth. Shades of blue symbolize royalty, the coming of the King, hope, the night sky before the dawn, the sea before creation, and Mary.

The second candle represents faith and is called "Bethlehem's Candle." Micah had foretold that the Messiah would be born in Bethlehem, which is also the birthplace of King David.

The third candle symbolizes joy and is called the "Shepherd's Candle." To the shepherd's great joy, the angels announced that Jesus came for humble, unimportant people like them, too. In liturgy, the color rose signifies joy. Tradition puts the rose-colored candle in the Advent wreath--not to symbolize Mary, but to reflect the lessening emphasis on penitence, the nearing of the end of the fast, the pending birth, and the second coming. The 3rd Sunday in Advent marks the half-way point, and we are allowed to be excited for the coming event. It is called Gaudete Sunday, from the Latin for "rejoice." It takes its name from one of the traditional readings from Philippians which begins, "Rejoice in the Lord always."

The fourth candle represents peace and is called the "Angel's Candle." The angels announced that Jesus came to bring peace--He came to bring people close to God and to each other again.

STEWARDSHIP

ST. EDWARD'S STEWARDSHIP 2023

The point is this: the one who sows sparingly will also reap sparingly, and the one who sows bountifully will also reap bountifully. Each of you must give as you have made up your mind, not reluctantly or under compulsion, for God loves a cheerful giver. And God is able to provide you with every blessing in abundance, so that by always having enough of everything, you may share abundantly in every good work. (2 Corinthians 9:6-8)

Please thoughtfully and heartfully contemplate stewardship this month and ponder what the life of our parish means to you. I trust that our shared life matters deeply to each of us, that our collective awareness and generosity will raise our senses of necessity, enabling us to close the gap between our income and our expense. I trust that we're invested in our relationships, in our discipleship, and in the flourishing of our spiritual home. — Father Rick and Good Book Club, a program of daily scripture reading and reflection. On occasion they have hosted conferences for lay leaders and clergy. Spanish resources can be found at venadelante.org, and you can write to them in Spanish at informacion@venadelante.org.

Note: The Forward Day by Day App offers a convenient way to follow the daily office. In addition to the printed office, audio for Morning and Evening prayer is conveniently offered.

Who publishes Forward Day by Day?

Forward Day by Day is published by Forward Movement, a ministry of the Episcopal Church. Forward Movement's mission is to inspire disciples and empower evangelists, and we do this work by offering Forward Day by Day, books, pamphlets, courses, conference, apps, and digital tools. Forward Movement is a self-sustaining non-profit based in Cincinnati, OH. We rely on sales and donations to fund our ministry.

They are widely known for the popular daily devotional Forward Day by Day, which provides daily meditations based on scripture readings from the lectionary. Forward Day by Day is printed for subscribers in Spanish and English—both pocket-size and large print editions. In addition, the daily devotion is available as an eBook or in Braille. They also offer a free podcast and smartphone app (for Apple or Android). In addition, the daily meditation is also available for free, online.

Forward Movement publishes books and courses, both print and online, for use by individuals and congregations. They also offer free resources such as Grow Christians, an online community for those trying to raise children in the faith, Though based in downtown Cincinnati, Forward Movement's staff of roughly twenty people is spread across the United States. They welcome suggestions from congregations, readers, and donors about how they can support you, or your church, in your growth as disciples of Jesus.

Forward Movement has been a ministry of the Episcopal Church since 1935. They are financially independent, relying on sales and the generosity of donors to support their mission and expand their reach. Each year they supply tens of thousands of free copies of printed booklets and books, mostly to prisons, hospitals, nursing homes, and military bases. They invite you to support the ministry of sharing the Good News of Christ around the world by donating online or mailing a check to their office.

You can learn more about their work on the website, write by email, or send a letter at 412 Sycamore St., Cincinnati, OH 45202. You may also call 800-543-1813 (8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday).

You can also follow them online on Facebook, Instagram, or Twitter.

The printed booklets, in regular and large print (a favorite of many parishioners) are available to all. Forward Day by Day is a booklet of daily inspirational meditations reflecting on a specific Bible passage, chosen from the daily lectionary readings as listed in the Revised Common Lectionary or the Daily Office from the Episcopal Church's Book of Common Prayer.

Ripples of Kindness

The Power of Kindness

No kind action ever stops with itself. One kind action leads to another. Good example is followed. A single act of kindness throws out roots in all directions, and the roots spring up and make new trees. The greatest work that kindness does to others is that it makes them kind themselves.

—Amelia Earhart

Happy 13th Birthday Tay

A Happy Moment In Time!

Anfal blowing out Tay's candles

Rayelenn and Anfal "Selfie"

In the words of Najib, "We don't celebrate birthdays in Afghanistan for many years. We've had other deeper things to be concerned about for long time."

But here in America, they are all smiles when that birthday cake and ice cream come through the front door....even Najib. No presents needed, a birthday card or two in the mailbox, cake and ice cream seem to be enough.

See that mischievous little smile? He's getting ready to turn the candles around so they say "31".

Tay has "Americanized" himself. He now wants to be called Tay (pronounced Ty)
